The Great Wellington.

The great Wellington, "the Iron Duke," was born May 1, 1769, at Dang Castle, Ireland; his father was Garrett, first Earl of Mornington, and his brother was the Marquis Wellesley. He completed his military education in the military college of Angers, France; entered the army in 1787 as an ensign, and 1793 was a Lieutenant Colonel. In a brief service in the Netherlands he distinguished himself in several repulses of the French, and in 1796 went to India, where he rose rapidly, and made his first grand success at Assaye, with 4,500 men defeating the combined Mahratta forces, from 40,000 to 50,000 strong; followed by the victories of Argaum and the great fort of Gawulghur; for these services he was made K. C. B., and received the thanks of Parliament and the King. In 1805 he returned to Great Britain, obtained a seat in the House of Commons, and in April, 1807, was appointed Chief Secretary of Ireland. In the year following he went to Spain in command of an expedition to drive out from that peninsula the French forces, and, after several affairs, defeated Junot in the battle of Vimicira, and was thanked by the Commons. He was subsequently made Marshal General of the Portuguese army; various combats ensued, and then the victory of Talavera, where a desperate struggle took place; he was again thanked by Parliament, and was created a peer and given a pension of £2,000. His next feat was to repulse the French attacks, September, 27, 1810, at Busaco, and the year after he received the thanks of Parliament for liberating Portugal. Spain had next to be cleared of its invaders, and this duty also fell to him. For his brilliant services at the storming of the fortress of Ciudad Rodrigo, January 19, 1812, he was created a grandee of Spain, again thanked by Parliament, £2,000 of a further pension given him, and he was advanced to the peerage with the title of Earl of Wellington. In April he took Badajoz and on July 22 took Salamanca, one of his greatest military triumphs; for these he received the Order of the Golden Fleece, and was made Generalissimo of the Spanish armies, was once more advanced in the British peerage by the title of Marquis of Wellington. Parliament thanked him again, and £100,000 were laid out in the purchase of lands to be settled on him and his heirs. He met his enemies, the French, at Victoria, under Junot, and added another victory to his list, and was made a field marshal of Great Britain, and succeeded in driving the French out of the peninsula by the time Napoleon had been persuaded to sign his abdication. The great soldier of the British forces was created Marquis of Douro and Duke of Wellington in the British peerage, and received an additional grant of £100,000 and took his seat in the House of Lords. When Napoleon escaped from Elba, Wellington was placed in command of the British forces on the Continent, and the two great antagonists met at Waterloo, with the result known to all the world. Wellington had command of the army of occupation, at the request of the allied sovereigns, from 1815 to 1818, during which time there were two attempts made upon his life. The King of the Netherlands created him Prince of Waterloo, Parliament voted him £200,000 more, and after various services he succeeded the Duke of York as Commander-in-Chief of the army, which he resigned shortly after, on Mr. Canning being called to form an administration, to take it again, and once more resign it when he was called to form an administration. Space will not permit us to do more than name these few leading incidents in his remarkable career. He retired from public civil life in 1846, and died at Walmer Castle September 14, 1852.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

The Daily Swelling of Plants.

With delicate means of measurement Herr Kraus has recently proved the existence of a phenomenon in all plant organs, which is connected with their variable water content, and consists in a periodical swelling and contraction in twenty-four hours. Leaves, etc., decrease in thickness from the early morning till the afternoon, when they begin to swell again, attaining a greater size by night than by day (this is well seen in agave, aloe, and the like); similarly with buds, flowers, green cones, fruits, etc., and with stems and branches. Herr Kraus has before proved such a period in the trunks of trees, and Herr Kraus shows that both wood and bark share in it, independently or unitedly. The various experiments of Herr Kraus—removal of foliage, watering, shutting out light, etc.—lead to an explanation of the phenomena by the varying reciprocal action of those factors which bring water into the plant and those which carry it away. By night only the water-absorbing activity of the parts below ground operates, by day the water-consuming activity of the parts above ground besides. The water consuming activity depends mainly on the foliage and on light (removal of leaves or of light stops contraction), and consists essentially in transpiration. Herr Kraus states that when a plant is watered these things occur: In a short time, less than an hour, the stem begins to swell; both wood and bark take part in this, the wood always first. The swelling progresses at a pretty quick rate, upward of several meters per second. After some time, perhaps an hour, contraction gradually recurs. The contraction began at the upper part of an acacia after ten minutes, whereas the swelling at the lower part continued fifty minutes. This shows that the contraction is due to the activity of the foliage, and gradually extended downward.—London Times.

Iron buildings often burn, yet wooden buildings may be made fire-proof, and frequently are so built. This statement is worth careful thought by all builders. It shows that an incombustible material is not needed for a fire-proof building. A slow burning building is always better than the so-called iron buildings. One of the means by which wood may be made fire-proof or slow-burning, is the exclusion of the air from it, as by sheathing with tin or covering with mortar. For security, we should have no flues or empty connecting spaces in the walls, to carry flames where it can not be reached by water, nor its exact position known. Floors are fire-proof where the timbers are incased in mortar and the air spaces closed, or where the floor is solid. A layer of mortar between double floor boards makes a floor nearly fire-proof from below, and in a dwelling quite so from above. Is it not possible to build without making every wall a labyrinth of flues lined with tinder, and giving the utmost protection and draft to a fire that may once start in them? The danger of double wooden walls is reduced one-half when the air spaces are cut off from all connection with each other.

In a year the number of respirations is, in most persons, over 9,000,000; and 125,000 cubic feet of air carried through the lungs, purifies 5,000 tons of blood.

A LETTER mailed in 1853 was recently found behind a shelf in a country post-office and forwarded to its destination. It was addressed to a young lady and contained a marriage proposal. When the lady read it she looked pleased and exclaimed: "Law me! I didn't expect to hear from John so soon. But what a wonderful thing is the fast mail service."

GRAYSON CONVENTION.

Col. Hurt, of Bath County, Nominated for Congress on the 108th Ballot.

Special to Daily Bulletin.

GRAYSON, Ky., Sept. 9, 1882.

Col. J. S. Hurt, of Bath county, received the nomination for Congress after one hundred and eight ballots had been taken.

BRACKEN COUNTY has a fine sorghum crop this year.

Gov. CAMERON, of Virginia, has refused to commute the sentence of death passed upon a colored girl of fourteen, who poisoned two persons by putting arsenic into their coffee, and a lad of twelve in St. Louis county, Mo., who killed his father, has been found guilty of murder in the first degree, and nothing but the governor's interference can save him.

The news of the nomination of Col. J. S. Hurt, of Bath county, for Congress by the Grayson Convention was received with satisfaction by the Democracy of Maysville. Col. Hurt is acceptable in every way and is sure to control in the race the united vote of the party in the district. It is announced on good authority that Mr. Wadsworth will not accept the Republican nomination against him.

News from Virginia indicates that the Democrats will scoop the state at the November election. Mahone has lost his grip and the administration, with all its patronage is unable to retain him in power. Political bosses, whose only strength lies in spoils, must sooner or later go, notwithstanding the Republican idea of boss or machine politics. It may be added in this connection that the Chalmers speculation will not prove profitable to the Republican party.

The following is a summary of the condition of Kentucky crops taken from Commissioner Bowman's monthly report: Wheat, 6,000,000 bushels in excess of any previous year; corn, three per cent. above the average; barley above the average; oats, twenty per cent. above the average; clover and timothy, twenty-five per cent. above the average; tobacco sixteen per cent. below the average; hemp thirty-five per cent. below the average; potatoes, seventy-five per cent. above any crop ever raised in the State; fruit, except in a few localities, a failure.

The following information is worth preserving: 1,000 laths will cover 70 yards of surface, 11 pounds of nails will put them on. Eight bushels of good lime, 15 bushels of sand, 1 bushel of hair, will make about enough mortar to plaster 100 square yards. A cord of stone, 3 bushels of lime and a cubic yard of sand will lay 100 cubic feet of wall. One thousand shingles laid 4 inches to the weather, will cover 100 square feet of surface, and 8 pounds of nails fastens them on. One fifth more siding and flooring is needed than the number of square feet of surface, because of the lap in the siding and the matching of the floor. Five courses of brick will lay 1 foot in height on a chimney; 6 bricks in a course will make a flue 4 inches wide and 12 long, and 8 bricks in a course make a flue 8 inches wide and 16 long.

The School Tax.

As there has been much conjecture concerning the construction of the late school act the following ruling of the Attorney General in regard thereto will be read with interest:

OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL, FRANKFORT, KY., Sept. 6, 1882.—Hon. J. D. Pickett, Superintendent of Public Instruction—Dear Sir: Your communication requesting my construction of the late school law, approved May 3, 1882, has been received.

First—The question in relation to the constitutionality of the act is one only to be determined by the courts and not by the executive and ministerial officers of the state, whose duty it is to carry out its provisions.

Second—The preamble declares that the purpose of the act is to make the "per capita" of white and colored pupils children the same, and that a tax of two cents on the $100 is sufficient for that purpose.

The first section then enacts that the two cents to be levied, etc., and further provides when the same shall be collected, that it shall be placed to the credit of the common school fund of the state, and that the entire fund shall then be for the benefit of both the white and the colored pupil children of the state. Section three then provides that the act shall not take effect until ratified by a vote of the people, etc., and the remainder of the act, in defining how the vote shall be taken and the tax collected, substitutes the word three for two. Aside from the recitals in the preamble, clearly the main question and the controlling idea is embodied in the first section, which is that two cents be levied and imposed and, when collected, be added to the common school fund, to which fund the white and colored pupil children shall be entitled in the same proportion.

No construction of the act as a whole inconsistent with this governing idea and intent is admissible. I am, therefore, of the opinion that only two cents was intended to be or can be collected.

Third—The declared intent and purpose of this act being to give to the colored pupil children equal benefits and advantages with the white children in the common school fund of the state (providing, however, separate schools for each), the general school law should be so construed and carried out as to effectuate this end and purpose. Very respectfully,
P. W. HARDIN, Attorney General.

NEWS BREVITIES.

Ten thousand pounds of Gunpowder exploded at Guaymas, Arizona, killing one man and destroying $100,000 worth of property.

In a railroad collision at Delaware Station, Pa., Celee Montu, the oldest watchman on the road, was jammed, head foremost, into the fire box of an engine and burned up.

Texas has had another flood in the northern and northwestern portions of the state. Towns are flooded and lands inundated. At Eagle pass the Rio Grande is higher than ever before known.

A boy fell into a creek at Oxford, Ind., and went home in wet clothes. His angry mother said that she wished he had stayed in the water. Taking this remark to heart, he returned to the stream and drowned himself.

The Zulu King's Allowance of Beef.

London Truth.

The ex-King Cetwayo still sticks to beef as the chief article of his diet; our beef he considers good, but not so good as that of his own country, for there is too much fat about it. The other day fourteen pounds had been prepared for his breakfast and that of his three chiefs. The latter ate thirteen pounds before Cetwayo made his appearance, so a fresh supply had to be cooked.

The Benton family of Scarborough, Cal., have turned their farm into a separate kingdom. The nine members passed a formal declaration of independence a few months ago, and crowned the husband and father as king. They hoisted a new flag over the the house, announced that their hundred acres were no longer a part of the United States, and refused to pay taxes. They are to have a war on their hands, for the Sheriff intends to make an invasion.

Emory Thomas sent to Mary Brown, at Jackson, Mich., silk for a dress as a present. He wished to marry her, and she was inclined to consent; but when she learned that the silk was part of the booty of a burglary, she became the principal witness against the wooer, and he was sent to prison for seven years. But they have become reconciled, and a few days ago the prison chaplain joined them in wedlock.

Winnemucca, princess of the Piutes, is of the opinion that within fifty years there will not be an Indian alive. "I dare say," she resentfully adds, "the white man is better in some respects; but he is a bigger rascal, too. He steals and lies more than the Indian does. I hope some other race will come and drive him out, and kill him, like he has done us. Then I will say the Great Spirit is just, and that it is all right."

M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Proceedings of the Annual Conference—
Summary of the Sermons and Exercises.

NOTES, PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE.

From our Special Correspondent.

THURSDAY.

At 3 p. m. Rev. G. C. Kelly preached from 2nd Corinthians 5:17. Wherefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature. The old things are passed away; beloved, they are become new.

When a man is in Christ he is not only a new creature but the world wears a new aspect and presents beauties and harmonies never realized before.

To occupy a proper point of view is to be happy under a sense of the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of Christ.

The service at night were in the interest of a new organization. The Church Extension Society.

A parent board was organized at the late general conference, and annual conference boards are to be organized. Dr. Wane led in the devotional exercises. Bishop Kavanaugh stated the object of the enterprise. Drs. Morton and Kelly made addresses, and Dr. J. B. McFerne "lifted" the collection.

To insure success and emulate the example set by other churches, the people of the M. E. church South, will have to be up and doing. From our own experience in raising money for benevolent enterprises we are compelled to say that but few give in proportion to their ability. The standard is according as a man has prospered.

FRIDAY.

Rev. J. W. Hughes conducted the prayer service. In the social meeting which followed, there were many to testify to God's saving power.

The bishop took the chair at 9 a. m. and the work moved smoothly forward until 11 o'clock when an unusual and most pathetic scene transpired. The 20th question was reached. Here is a critical test for all who have been advanced to elder's orders.

When the name of the Rev. C. W. Miller was called that faithful man of God was not present to answer his name. A gallant soldier of the cross was reported disabled at present.

Instead of his response came through his presiding elder, messages of love and kindly interest. Feeling a few days since that perhaps his eternal furlough had come he sent to his companions in arms his goodbye.

A stanza beginning "when thro' the deep waters I call thee to go" etc., was sung and Bishop Kavanaugh led in a most touching prayer to God in behalf of the sufferer and his family. After these services the list of the Lexington district was proceeded with.

At 3 p. m., Rev. G. C. Overstreet of the Williamstown high school preached to a large and attentive audience from Revelation 2:17.

The sermon evinced thought and careful preparation and was attentively listened to throughout.

At night the preachers and society had an address by Rev. W. F. Taylor.

This organization is as follows: Rev. D. B. Cooper, president.

Vice Presidents—Dr. James A. Henderson, Rev. T. J. Godby.

Secretary—James C. Minor.

Treasurer—T. F. Vanmeter.

The object is to create a perpetual fund for the help of superannuated preachers, their wives and children. The interest on the investments to be so used. The object is of such a character as to commend itself to all who would in the least exemplify the teachings of Holy writ.

Mr. Taylor delivered a most forcible address. Rev. S. X. Hall took up a collection and subscription amounting to about $250.

NOTES.

Prof. Batson, President Kentucky Wesleyan College was here to-day. The excellent institution over which he so worthily presides is now well equipped in all its departments, and has before it the brightest prospect for the ensuing year.

Judge Cole was an interested spectator to-day.

The citizens attend the business sessions of the conference well, and seem to enjoy the proceedings.

Rev. J. W. Mitchell, formerly of Maysville, is at his post looking well and happy, after a pleasant and successful year's labor elsewhere.

Mr. Dow Givens, of Flemingsburg, arrived to-day.

Dr. J. B. Fitzpatrick, of the Western Virginia Conference, is here.

The committee on reception in our estimation cannot be excelled. Our hearty thanks to Messrs. Sam. Veach and Hanson Kennedy for many, many courtesies.

ED. DAILY EVENING BULLETIN:—Good for Watson. Perhaps that caused the delay. But can it be that David who murdered Uriah, and was not otherwise altogether innocent, excepted himself when he said "there is none that doeth good, no, not one?" My! I would not have thought it of David. Doubtless St. Paul had a general meaning in the chapter of Rom. referred to, but no sane man can doubt he is giving a personal experience, at least "Unsanctified" does not know that such an one ever did before. Let it be marked that his quotation of xiv. Psalm is free.

No, "Unsanctified" is not a Persian, but he does believe the body thinks, and wills, and has affections. Does your C. M. correspondent doubt it, let him excavate his material brain, and he won't have thought enough remaining to tell whether he is body or soul. I assure him it will remove his doubt. What do we understand by the lusts of the flesh, if it has no will or affections? And why pray did Paul write "the flesh lusteth against the spirit, and the spirit against the flesh," if they had not wills and desires the one contrary to the other? Indeed this is the keynote to your C. M. correspondent's difficulty in putting "Unsanctified" right. So long as man exists in the body, so long he has within him the forces, the potentiality of sin, and this we are informed continually lusteth i. e., tendeth against the spirit, or in other words desires to operate. But the Savior has said, (Matt. v.) that this desire is sin. Now how may one get rid of this trouble save by death? That assuredly will put an end to all passions, and lust, and thus freed by whatever process, act or thing that follows death, the being sanctified shall culminate in the entire sanctification of the ego. "Unsanctified" desires sanctification, but so long as he is chained to that which tendeth toward death, he sees no entire sanctification this side of the sanctified land; nor can he find a deliverer from this body of death. His flesh lusteth against the spirit, and ever and anon in a weak moment it gets the mastery. But sir, to think that your C. M. correspondent should have so dealt with St. John, when he writes "these things write we unto you that your joy may be full" in the same chapter, and in the same connection writes "My little children, these things write I to you, that ye sin not." And if any man sin—(for we are both liable and likely to sin)—"we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous." Why, in the 10th verse of the 1st chapter he says, "if we say that we have not sinned," that is have not sin after cleansing "we make him (God) a liar." Where does the combatant sect come in here? My! But this thing is degenerating into an argument, and deliver me from such, it is one of the lusts of the flesh, besides your C. M. correspondent won't remove any more (!) difficulties, therefore I desist, and silent will continue; but for further difficulties of "Unsanctified," he refers to the average walking, living specimen of the sanctified. Only because I write not again my dear sir, shall I write me down no more.

Yours, UNSANCTIFIED.
P. S.—What could our Savior have meant when he said, "When ye pray, say, Our Father which art in heaven * * * forgive us our sins. And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil?" Ah, "if we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us." U.

PERSONALS.

Points About People Here and Elsewhere.

Mr. J. M. Nolin and children left yesterday for Cincinnati to attend the exposition.

Rev. Thomas Hanford, of Sardis, will preach at the Third Street M. E. Church, to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock. Services at night by Rev. J. D. Walsh, presiding elder. Everybody is invited.

An old man who has long lived alone at Medway, Mass., was found dead in his cellar, held down by a barrel of sand. It is supposed that he had lain in a dying condition several days, the barrel resting on his legs, where it had fallen.

A remarkable story comes from Ovid, Mich. The veracious report says: "Great excitement in this county prevails over the peculiar predicament of a man here who, disgusted with the rain, which was rotting his wheat, seized a large butcher knife and, rushing into the field, said he wished he could catch God and cut His throat for sending so much rain. No sooner had he uttered these blasphemous words than he stood rooted to the spot, from which he has not since moved. Two doctors from Flint tried rescue him, but they were frightened away by the thunder and lightning. The people of the community round about are all praying for his delivery, but as yet without avail.

Well-Known Phrases.

THE term "blackguard" has a very common-place origin. In all great houses, particularly in royal residences, there were a number of mean and dirty dependents whose office it was to attend the wood-yard, sculleries, etc. Of these (for in the lowest depths there were lower still) the most forlorn wretches seem to have been selected to carry coal to the kitchen, hall and other apartments. To this smutty regiment, who attended the progresses, and rode in the carts with the pots and kettles, which, with every other article of furniture, were then moved from palace to palace, the people in derision gave the name of "blackguards"—a term since become sufficiently familiar. "To the bitter end" is clearly an old nautical expression. A dictionary published in the early part of the eighteenth century has "bite," a turn or part of a cable; "bitts," to mean pieces of timber to which a cable is fastened when a ship rides at anchor; "bitter," a turn of the cable about the timber called "bitts," that it may be veered out by little and little; and "bitter end" (of a cable) is that part which is wound about the "bitts" when a ship rides at anchor. The modern cant expression, "to the bitter end," may have taken its rise either from the old nautical words, as meaning the last coil of the cable, or from the last end, the very "bitter" dregs. It is a slang expression, another form of, "I will fight you to the death." In it "bitter" only means pitiless, severe, like a bitter east wind or a bitter foe.

According to D'Israeli, the custom of dotting the letter i was not practiced until the eleventh century.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain it effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER.

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District, ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan. 20, 1880.
DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with Kendall's Spavin Cure has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ring-bone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours, P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.
B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with Kendall's Spavin Cure, one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me it will be very great.

Respectfully yours, CHAS. E. PARKER.
KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach a every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.
